Located in the picturesque village of Tejina de Guía, this historic house dating back to 1890 has been completely renovated to combine its original character with modern comfort. Situated 604 metres above sea level and set on a plot of 475 m², this property offers a unique lifestyle in a peaceful and natural environment.

With a built area of 225 m², the house has been transformed from its original structure, which included stables and animal sheds, into a spacious four-bedroom, three-bathroom home. Natural light flows in through strategically placed skylights, enhancing the warmth and spaciousness of the rooms.

From the roof terrace, the views are simply breathtaking, with panoramic views over the village square, the Atlantic Ocean and the majestic island of La Gomera. In addition, the property offers mountain views, creating an idyllic setting for those seeking a home in a privileged natural environment.

The master bedroom stands out for its spaciousness and includes an en-suite bathroom and a dressing area. At the entrance of the house, another of the bedrooms has independent access from the street, making it an ideal option for use as a private office.

The kitchen has been designed for comfort and functionality, equipped with a large capacity fridge, a water filtering system, dishwasher and ceramic hob. It also has a 100 litre water heater for greater autonomy.

The access to the garage, with capacity for two vehicles or one car with additional storage space, is located on a side street. From this area, stairs lead down to the private garden, a perfect spot for relaxing outdoors.

For those looking for a property ready to move into, this house is sold fully furnished, with the exception of decorative pieces such as paintings and sculptures. In addition, it has a fibre optic connection, guaranteeing fast and stable connectivity.

This is a unique opportunity to acquire a home with history, charm and unrivalled views in one of the most authentic areas of the south of Tenerife.
